The Szöllősi - Vida pair is diligently preparing for the big competition.

A masterful photograph..., and a masterful jump. Alice Fischer of Switzerland on the ice-rink.

Except for the doubles, all competitions started with the fixed routine. This is Erica Batchelor during her fixed routine.

The youngest pair were Kilius and Ningel from West Germany. Although they both stumbled during their routine, their performance was so beautiful that they won third place.

Hans Müller from Switzerland nimbly skates into the ice rink to the sound of the music. Although his routine lacks content, he performed it nicely.

The dance of Edith Feikert and Johann Kutschera is characterized by grace and elegance.

The women's figure skating competition was lively and spectacular. Hédi Pálincás leaped onto the ice in a light green dress with red flowers. Her jump, which is pictured here, received a lot of applause.

A nice move by Eszter Jurek.
